Double-Deckers, Death and Shame

To the editor:

I am a member of one of the neighborhood organizations that have been “protesting these oversized vehicles since they first appeared almost eight years ago” (“Double-Decker Menace,” editorial, May 27). It was surprising for me to see the same members of the mayor’s office and Police Department who have ignored our pleas in the past now demand that city and state laws and regulations be enforced after a New York Apple Tours bus killed a pedestrian.
